PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

I am a promising and passionate software developer who is continuously learning and growing. I specialize in working with both front-end and back-end development. Over the past year, I gained a lot of experience by attending a bootcamp and working on various apps. I always focus on writing highly readable, easily maintainable and scalable code. I comprehend the importance of creating intuitive user interfaces and testing things so they can work and optimize your code for the best performance you can make of it. I persistently learn new technologies and improve as a developer to be a good professional.
